"People make records, that is true, but people also determine what to record and what to do with it once its recorded"
Professor Gus John
(Keynote speaker, ARA conference, 29 August 2018)

The Archives and Records Association (UK & Ireland) is committed to:

Being an agent for change and reflecting the variety and diversity of the communities we serve in the records we manage, preserve and keep

Opening up opportunities to work in the record-keeping profession to all

Supporting record-keepers and conservators in the many challenges they face working in the sector

"Don't be overawed... it's always those little actions that you can take today and next week that get things moving"

Martin Sibley

(Keynote speaker, ARA conference, 31 August 2018)

Next steps...

The Board of the Archives and Records Association (UK & Ireland) will develop an action plan to tackle the challenges set in this manifesto. Updates on our work will be publicised using #ARAGlasgowManifesto

The Archives and Records Association (UK & Ireland) is committed to reviewing this document at the 2019 Leeds conference which will take place at the Queens Hotel, Leeds, from 28 to 30 August 2019.
